Trans (Wesleyan Poetry Series) Hilda Raz

Winner of the Nebraska Center for the Book's Nebraska Book Award for poetry (2002)

This elegant and moving collection grew out of Hilda Raz's experience with her son's journey to a transgender identity. Born Sarah, now Aaron, Raz's child has had a profound impact on her understanding of what it means to be a family, to be whole, and to know oneself. The collection moves between past and present, allowing Raz to reflect on her own childhood, and on her experience with breast cancer to find ways to connect with Aaron. The journey takes us from intimacy to strangeness and back again, from denial to humor to grief and rage, but always laced with love and acceptance.

"Trans" means across, through, over, to or on the other side, and beyond. The book documents some major transformations of body, self, society and spirit that art requires and life allows. The poems themselves are accessible and finely wrought. They are equally testaments to Raz's insistence on making an order out of chaos, of finding ways to create and understand and eventually accept new definitions of self and family. The physical and sensuous language of Raz's poems, and their humanity, keep them intimately bound to the world and to the senses.

As a college student exactly feel bored to reading. If their teacher expected them to go to the library as well as to make summary for some reserve, they are complained. Just tiny students that has reading's heart and soul or real their leisure activity. They just do what the professor want, like asked to go to the library. They go to right now there but nothing reading very seriously. Any students feel that studying is not important, boring and also can't see colorful pictures on there. Yeah, it is for being complicated. Book is very important for yourself. As we know that on this age, many ways to get whatever you want. Likewise word says, many ways to reach Chinese's country. Therefore , this Trans (Wesleyan Poetry Series) can make you experience more interested to read.
