Sir Ahmad left High Castle to escape his feelings for Lady Idra, but when duty to the high prince calls him home he must face his fears head on or risk losing more than Idra's love.

During his absence, Ida holds out hope that Ahmad has not forgotten her, but she refuses to let fear or timidity rule her life anymore and takes matters into her own hands. While he's been away, she's been training to fight. But her willingness to help others attracts danger at every turn, including when a new knight to the castle asks for her assistance with Sir Florian, a fellow guardsman.

In pursuit of an answer to the mystery of Florian's malaise, they uncover roots of treason that threaten to undo the kingdom. They find out too late they've incited the wrath of an ancient rebellion steeped in magic, putting themselves and everyone they love in grave danger.

Can they stop the traitors' plot from reaching its fruition in time, or has their interference only sealed the awful fate of those they've sworn to protect? When Florian is faced with an impossible choice between loyalty to his king and the life of his sister, the choice seems simple. But for an honorable man, is it?
