In Malaysia and Singapore, East meets West and fuses the best of everything. With its vast variety of cultural and natural environments, an informed guidebook is a necessity. How else will you know where to find solitude on one of a group of 99 islands or the best beach resorts on an unbroken 300-kilometer (186-mile) stretch of sea and sand? In the small island of Singapore, where the variety of cuisines rivals that of New York but at a fraction of the price, where do you get the best meal? Whether you want to visit a tea plantaion, shopping centers or nightclubs, or take a rafting adventure on rivers through the tropical jungles of the Malaysian half of the huge island once called Borneo, you'll find tremendous choice, challenge and opportunity. "The Traveler's Malaysia & Singapore Companion" takes an inspiring and knowledgeable look at the region's myriad possibilities.
