Thomas Jefferson famously remarked that the tree of liberty must be refreshed from time to time with the blood of patriots and tyrants. I certainly hope he was wrong. I would prefer to think that education might suffice to refresh the tree of liberty. Therefore, in the hope that I am more right than the great man about this, I offer this small anthology. It is a collection of thirty brilliant writings and speeches which just might provide that refreshment to younger generations of Americans. “As an immigrant to America, I can only applaud any effort to remind all of us of the great traditions of liberty that animate this great country at its very roots. Michael Justin Lee has done that and more in this collection of documents and speeches. Give this to your friends and children. They will thank you.” Samuel Gregg, D.Phil. Director of Research The Acton Institute
