In her new book, The Creative Prayer Journal: A 21-Day Challenge to Experiencing Meaningful Conversations With God, Kim Steadman writes to help women nurture their conversations with God. After experiencing an extended season of stresses in her life, she felt God was calling her to a season of rest. She brought her heart, mind, body, and soul home to rest and rejuvenate.

Kim has experienced both sides of prayer as both the receiver of prayer and the one doing the praying. Her journey to restoration traveled many roads, one of which was strengthening her waning prayer life. However, her years of life in the office with boring spreadsheets and long to-do lists stifled her prayer life. Prayer had become a series of lists and needs and lacked meaning. Prayer had become boring.

Longing for more meaningful conversations with God she remembered the fun and multi-sensory prayer ideas she used to teach little ones in Sunday School. After applying those ideas to her personal prayer life, she nurtured her new love for prayer. She also found inserting fun and creative prayer ideas into her own prayer time; she unlocked the meaningful conversations with God her heart desired.

Kim Steadman encourages women to say yes to themselves. When your work ethic no longer honors who you are, she helps women to escape the traditional mold of success. The motto at her blog, The Re feathered Nest, is to repurpose and redesign your life with God as your master designer.
